Our Story

Golden Height Foundation was born not from theory, but from a moment that touched my heart forever.

In June 2019, on a sunny afternoon in Cape Coast, I took my daughters to a hotel pool. As we waited, I noticed five children sitting quietly nearby. When the pool opened, my girls jumped in with joy, yet those children stayed on the sidelines. Curious, I asked why. The eldest whispered: "We're waiting until evening. It will cost less then. We can't afford the full price."

Later, as I read a picture book to my baby, those same children gathered around, captivated by the colourful pages. Their eyes lit up, their laughter filled the air, and in that instant I saw both the beauty of their potential and the weight of their limitations.

As a mother, I couldn't stop wondering about their own mothers. Did they wish to be here too, but couldn't? Did they know where their children were? That moment stirred something in me, which is gratitude, empathy, and a deep responsibility to act.

So, I joined hands with like-minded people and asked: How can we give back? How can we open doors for children and the women raising them?

The answer became the foundation of our mission: to provide books, learning tools, and opportunities for children as well as skills training, and empowerment for women.

That single poolside encounter planted the seed for Golden Height Foundation, a movement built on empathy, hope, and action. Today, we stand to unlock the potential of children through education and to empower women with independence and dignity.

Golden Height Foundation is not just a charity. It is a promise: that when children and women rise, families thrive, and communities are transformed. Together, we can lift lives toward golden heights.

What We Do

1. Educational Support for Pupils

Golden Height assist with addressing the resource gap in rural schools by providing:

Computer Labs & Libraries – Equipping schools with solar-powered computer labs, books, and digital content to build strong literacy and digital skills from an early age.

Upgraded Learning Spaces – Supporting the furnishing of classrooms and reading corners to create safe, engaging environments.

Learning Materials – Distributing backpacks, stationery, and age-appropriate teaching aids to ensure pupils are fully prepared for school.

Teacher Training – Providing computer and digital skills training for teachers to enhance learning delivery.

Through these interventions, we improve academic outcomes and nurture children's creativity, problem-solving, and competitiveness in today's digital world.

What We Do

2. Partnerships with Schools, Communities & Donors

We build strong partnerships at multiple levels:

Local Collaboration – Working with the Ghana Education Service, parent-teacher associations, and community leaders to identify schools in greatest need.

Corporate Sponsors & Philanthropists – Engaging businesses and individuals to support through CSR initiatives and direct sponsorships.

International Donor Agencies & NGOs – Partnering with global education and development organizations to secure funding, technical support, and learning resources.

Universities & Research Institutions – Leveraging expertise for training, monitoring, and evidence-based impact evaluation.

These partnerships ensure that interventions are well-resourced, sustainable, and aligned with both local and global development goals.

What We Do

3. Women's Vocational Training & Empowerment

Golden Height equips rural women with tools for sustainable livelihoods by:

Hands-on Vocational Training –
Soap-making, catering, beadwork, tailoring, and other trades suited to local and international markets.

Financial Literacy & Digital Tools
– Training women in savings, bookkeeping, mobile money, and digital marketing to strengthen financial independence.

Entrepreneurship & Cooperative Models – Supporting women-led micro-enterprises and cooperatives to build collective resilience and reinvest in their families.

These initiatives reduce household poverty, improve education for children (as women reinvest in their families), and foster women's leadership in rural communities.

What We Do

4. Sustainable & Scalable Impact

Our model is built for long-term growth and resilience:

Starting with three school donations annually, ensuring depth and measurable impact.

Scaling gradually toward monthly outreach programmes as resources grow.

Leveraging solar energy savings and community ownership to reinvest in libraries, computer labs, and women's cooperatives.

This creates a cycle of empowerment where children gain quality education, women build sustainable incomes, and communities thrive.

A Message from The Founder

Dear Friends,

At Golden Height Foundation, we believe that every child deserves the chance to learn with dignity and every woman deserves the opportunity to thrive. Yet, in many rural communities, pupils still struggle without basic school supplies, and women lack the resources to build sustainable livelihoods. This is why Golden Height Foundation exists to bridge these gaps. With your support, we equip pupils with essential learning tools, build and restock libraries and computer labs, and empower women with vocational skills that transform families and communities. Your generosity has the power to change lives and it becomes a stepping stone to a brighter future.

I invite you to join us in this journey of hope and transformation. Together, we can give rural communities the tools to rise and the opportunity to shine. Every child deserves the joy of learning and every woman deserves the chance to thrive. At Golden Height Foundation, we see these dreams in the eyes of rural pupils and mothers every day — and with your support, we can turn them into reality.

We value your trust, and every cedi is carefully managed to ensure that your generosity truly transforms lives. Together, let's lift lives and give hope a chance to grow.

Golden Height Foundation: Unlocking Potential: Transforming Communities

With gratitude,
Dr (Mrs) Mavis Opoku Boadu (CA)
